Concept Note

The present seminar is purported to review and understand the governance, administration and development in the present scenario and global initiatives in addressing the adverse repercussions of the modern industrialism on nature, in the way of life of humans with the objective of identifying the limitations these efforts are confronted with. The seminar further seeks to evaluate the political, socio-economic, industrial and environmental dimensions after Seven Decades of Independence as visualized, promoted and practiced by government and global institutions in the wider settings of Gandhian vision of human sustainability and its legacy. The major focus of the seminar will be examining the feasibility and practical relevance of Gandhian vision and mission of human sustainability in the context of scientifically validated irrelevance of modern western developmentalism in its two forms of capitalism and communism in achieving human sustainability and in promoting human welfare after 75 years of Independence. The seminar also will examine the relevance of the Wisdom Tradition of India from where Gandhiji ever drew insight and strength for his life mission with the objective of shedding new light in resolving the human predicament that recedes solutions. The present seminar is primarily interdisciplinary. Therefore, papers on related themes are invited from scholars from different fields. Interested participants may send their abstract and full paper relevant to the theme as e-mail attachment in MS Word format to ashu.p2@gmail.com seminaraugust23@gmail.com before August 2, 2023. Hard copy may be submitted on the day of Seminar.
